Nineteen plays are extant, if one of disputed authorship is included. At only four festivals was Euripides awarded the first prize—the fourth posthumously, for the tetralogy that included Bacchantes and Iphigenia at Aulis. As Sophocles won perhaps as many as 24 victories, it is clear that Euripides was comparatively unsuccessful.

Four Ancient Playwrights. While there were many playwrights that submitted plays to the Dionysian Festivals, most records of their efforts have been lost. Those we do know about were the most celebrated, both in creating award-winning tragic and comic works of theater, but also in their contribution to shaping the conventions of the genre.
